MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

SUBJECT: Conversation with Secretary of State,
12 May 1980 []

1. Ron Spiers (D/INR) sat in on the meeting. I went through the discussion outline point by point. []

2. On the PDB, he did not indicate a preference for either a substantive person to deliver it or writing notes. I told him we would do either or both. I pointed out that he might get a little more wholesome answer if it were staffed and returned to him the next morning. We'll just have to wait and see what he says as time goes on. []

3. I showed him a number of our products. He showed genuine interest in them. I told him we would tailor anything to his needs. []

4. He asked if for his forthcoming meeting with Gromyko we could provide him any information on what might be on Gromyko's mind. I told him that we could have our Soviet experts try to deduce what Gromyko might raise, but that in this case we were [] Let's do a hasty look at whether we can get something together for him that we could send by message that would forecast Gromyko's outlook at this time. []

5. We talked about the Presidential briefs and his coming. I didn't get any specifics on areas that he wanted covered, but when I told him we might do a Southwest Asia-Middle East regional survey he thought that would be helpful. []

DESCRIPTION OF APPROVAL PROCESS

Generation of Proposal

May come from any agency or the White House

Development of Proposal

- Consultation at Political Intelligence Working Group (PIWG)
- Consultation with appropriate ambassadors
- Consultation by the DDCI with Under Secretary Newsom or by Operations Directorate officers with their geographic counterparts, usually at the Assistant Secretary level.

Preparation of Proposal

CIA prepares a paper for distribution, via NSC channels, prior (usually) to the SCC meeting. Drafting and coordination is handled on a compartmented basis. Within CIA, we coordinate with NFAC, OGC, OLC, and the Comptroller.

If the SCC approves, the Presidential Finding is forwarded to the President for his signature. After the President signs the finding, appropriate committees of Congress are promptly briefed.
